ARBITRARY ARRESTS.—The indictment at Washington of Gen. L. C. Baker for false imprisonment and robbery is regarded with much interest here, where the General is known so well in connection with his active proceedings last winter as Chief Detective of the War Department. Bounty jumpers and Government swindlers of all degrees are in ecstasies over the affair, and are sure that their triumph has come at last. But it would not be at all surprising if it should turn out that the General is a very willing defendant to this prosecution, if, indeed, it was not helped forward by him for the purpose of justice. Pardon-brokerage has got to be quite as formidable a swindle as bounty brokerage used to be, with this difference, that the modus operandi is much more difficult to be got at. The trial of the indictment against the General promises to be rich in its developments. The charges on which the indictment is founded are "that Gen. Baker, through the agency of his subordinates, did arrest and imprison one Joseph R. Cobb and wife, and take from them a letter addressed by Clarence J. Howell to William H. Seward, and also an Executive pardon signed by the President and attested by the Secretary of State—for said Howell, and further, that at the same time he took from the female plaintiff $400 in Treasury notes." When it is understood that Clarence J. Howell was the assumed name of one of Gen. Baker's detectives, and that the Treasury notes taken from Mrs. Cobb belonged to the General himself, they having been placed in the hands of his detective with the assumed name in the furtherance of the ends of justice, the reader will begin to get a glimpse of the true state of this affair.

Of one of the parties to the prosecution, Mrs. Lucy L. Cobb, the Washington papers say she has been remarkably successful in her vocation of pardon broker, a success which, it is intimated, she owes quite as much to her attractive personal appearance as to the merits of the cases she takes in hand. She formerly kept a cigar stand near the Kirkwood House, and was then known by her maiden name Lucy Randolph. Her husband was a rebel. What brought this couple under Baker's notice was the following circumstance: Several weeks ago a notorious rebel bridge burner was observed strolling about the streets of Washington, and as the General had reason for knowing that he had not taken the amnesty oath, he ordered his arrest, whereupon the prisoner produced a pardon signed by the President. Subsequent inquiry showed that this pardon had been obtained through the agency of the Cobbs.—N. Y. [illegible] Bulletin

THE CONFEDERATE COLONY IN MEXICO.—We learn from a gentleman who lived formerly in Lexington in this State, something of the prospects of the Confederate colony which is being established in Mexico. The one to which he belongs, and to which he will return, as soon as he can dispose of certain property in this State, lies near Cordova, a town on the road between Vera Cruz and the city of Mexico, and about one hundred miles from the former place. It consists of about a dozen large haciendas of apparently good land capable of producing cotton, coffee, cocoa and tobacco. The land will be given to the settlers by the Emperor's government in parcels of 640 acres to families, and in smaller allotments to single men. Sterling Price, Gen. Jo Shelby, ex-Gov. Harris of Tennessee, and Judge Perkins of Louisiana, were there at the time of his departure, with other proposed settlers of less note. Lieut. Maury, formerly of the Naval Observatory at Washington, was also there and actively engaged in furthering the scheme, by drawing up a report to be circulated in the Southern States, with a view of inducing parties of colonists to come over and join them. The work of tilling the soil had not been fairly commenced, and would be postponed until there was a suitable accession to their numbers. This they expected to obtain in reasonable time through the medium of Maury's report, and the influence of the newspaper which ex-Gov. Allen of Louisiana has commenced publishing in the city of Mexico. Maximilian, our informant thinks, is secure enough on his throne, provided the Monroe doctrine be not broadly asserted by the United States. The armed resistance of the Liberals will soon be overcome, and the opposition to him be confined to the Church party alone. This opposition, however, is not apt to take the form of a revolution, inasmuch as the Liberal party first confiscated the Church property, and Maximilian's offense consists only in refusing to restore it.—St. Louis Republican.

THE LATE GENERAL WRIGHT.—We extract the following from the late message of Governor Low to the Legislature of California.

It becomes my painful duty to announce to you the decease of Brigadier-General George Wright, for some years in command of the Military Department of the Pacific, to whose loyalty, fidelity and military ability, the people of this State are so much indebted for the peace and good order that prevailed during the dark days of the republic.

While all recognize the services rendered to us by this distinguished officer, to none were they so apparent as to those connected with the Executive Department. Brave, generous and discreet, in him were combined all the qualities that go to make up the gallant soldier and wise commander; while his modesty of manner and gentleness of disposition endeared him to all with whom he mingled in social life. As his last duties on earth were performed here, it seemed befitting that his final resting place should be among those whom he had served so well; therefore, at my request, and with the consent of the Trustees, the remains of General Wright and his wife have been interred in the State burying grounds, near the Capitol.

In consideration of the services rendered the nation, through a long military career, and in recognition of the debt of gratitude due to him by us, I recommend that a suitable monument be erected to his memory, and ask that a reasonable appropriation be made for that purpose.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 30, 1865

The Rebel Debt

There is every reason to believe that unless their action is forestalled a strong effort will be made by the Southern States aided by what power they can command in the North to cause Congress sometime hereafter to assume the rebel debt. A triumph of the party which stands in opposition to the National Union organization would give the late rebels and their political allies an opportunity thus to accomplish a thing which would quite compensate the South for its utter defeat and give that people a full equivalent for all they claim to have lost. Whether the rebel debt is to be assumed or not depends (as the matter now stands) entirely on the kind of material of which future Congresses are composed. The disloyalists of the South say that though their cause is lost they have gained additional political power as a result of the war, that as the old three fifths rule is to be succeeded by a representation of the whole number of blacks, the Southern States will gain eighteen members of Congress by the change, that with a united delegation of ninety members reinforced by the "Democrats" of the North on all of whose members they may as formerly implicitly rely, they will be sufficiently powerful to obtain control of the Government, and then will follow either the repudiation of the national, or the assumption of the rebel debt. The present Congress foreseeing the danger, is already taking measures to guard against the success of the rebels' plan. The matter is deemed of sufficient importance and gravity to call for a Constitutional Amendment, forever prohibiting the rebel debt from being assumed. The House of Representatives on the 19th of December passed a resolution to submit the amendment to the several States for their action. Whether the Senate has passed it we are not apprised; but if it has not yet done so, it certainly will soon. All the Northern States will ratify this amendment, but whether any of the Southern States will do so, excepting perhaps, Tennessee, we seriously doubt. It is hardly to be expected that those States for some time to come will conform their legislation to the behests of loyalty. When the armies are once removed, and the people get the State governments fully into their own hands, we may expect them to be somewhat more contumacious than they were a while ago when they knew well that manifestations of hostility to the Government would cause the President to dissolve their Conventions and Legislatures, and delay indefinitely their restoration to civil rights and local independence.

The Temper of the South.

Before and during the war, the Richmond Enquirer was one of the most malignant of all the Southern journals. The bad spirit of its people and the determined disloyalty of its people and the semi-barbarous ferocity with which their conduct was characterized during the entire struggle, give undeniable proofs, however, that the Enquirer was animated by a no deeper hostility to the North than belonged to the mass of the rebellious people, and indicate further, that that journal was a fair representative of the feeling of the South. When Richmond was captured, the office from which that exponent of the native treason and [illegible] rancor of the South had long been issued, was left in ruins. A short time ago the paper was revived and just as it once reflected the ante war sentiment of the South, so now it may be taken as an index of the feeling which prevails throughout the late rebellious States. It is noticeable the Enquirer, in common with other Southern journals, and with Southern men generally, does not concede that the rebels were wrong in the least degree. It would cherish the memory of leading rebels, living and dead, and would place them in honorable array upon the page of history in company with the noble patriots who have fought with so sublime a heroism to maintain the integrity of our Government, to promote the cause of human freedom and to save the nation from being forever dishonored before the world. It would have the country ascribe the same honor to those who, with perjury upon their lips, and with treason and undying hate in their hearts, strove to destroy their country, as is awarded to those who gave their lives to save it. We quote from the Enquirer, as follows:

The time must come, when Stonewall Jackson will be as much admired North as he is beloved South; and then the cause, and him who illustrated it, will be rightly judged.

They who hold such language as this are not fit to receive the pardons that are thrust upon them. The idea that prominent rebels deserve noble distinction and honorable remembrance, ought to be eradicated from the Southern mind. And it must be, if that people is to be brought to a proper sense of the wrong they have done. How, if they mourn the loss of the traitors' and slave holders' Confederacy, can they ever revere the Union and reconcile themselves perfectly to the Government—our Government and theirs?

In order to conciliate, are we to forget that treason is a crime? And will the Union be the more firmly established by our conceding that the cause of the South was just and right, and that we of the North did wrong in quelling the insurrection? If the nation erects a monument to the memory of Sedgwick and M'Pherson, must it do the same for Stonewall Jackson? If harmony between the sections is to be purchased in this manner, the price is too great. They who ask the country to suffer the acts of its domestic enemies to pass into oblivion, and who would have us assist these natural foes of the Government into honorable positions, ask that infamy may be made respectable, and that the standard of patriotism may be sunk to the level of treason.

The Enquirer thinks that the liberation of Jefferson Davis is necessary to restore the Union. It thus speaks for the Southern people in demanding his restoration:

The policy of President Johnson for the restoration of the States to equal rights in the Union commends itself to the gratitude and affection of the people of the Southern States. In mitigating the exercise of those rights which conquest gave, he has exhibited a magnanimity and kindness toward the people of those States as great as it was unexpected. He has won their gratitude and will not fail to receive their cordial support. That he is moving onward in the work of restoration quite as fast as he deems prudent cannot be doubted, and that he means to make the restoration of the Union the great distinguishing feature of his administration, must be apparent to every one. But the work of restoration applies to individuals as well as to States, and while Mississippi is restored, Jefferson Davis whom she carried still languishes in prison. His pardon and liberation would crown the work of restoration with completeness and leave no issue between the North and the South. His imprisonment agitates the public mind, unsettles national thought and disturbs the harmony of the Union. One half of the nation would tremble at his trial, the other half would blush at his conviction, and the world would stand aghast at his execution. What good end does his imprisonment serve? Does it make treason odious? Was the memory of Emmett made odious by his execution? Were Louis Blanc, Ledru Rollin and their fellow exiles made odious by banishment from France? What impartial jury can try him? What unprejudiced judge can administer justice? Shall loyal men only sit upon that jury? Shall only a loyal judge try the case? Then as well condemn him without the formalities of a trial, as bring him before men whose passions and convictions influenced by the issues of a four years' war have made them prejudge and predecide the case. Jefferson Davis can never be made odious by trial, conviction or execution, or by all combined. There is not one man in these Southern States less guilty of treason or patriotism, whichever it may be called, than Jefferson Davis. He was the agent, the people, the principal—and all are guilty in kind and degree. The war was the work of a constitutional construction which the framers left unsettled and which disturbed the politics of this country from 1798 to 1860 and which culminated in treason and bloodshed. That question of constitutional interpretation was settled fully and finally at Appomattox Court House by the surrender of General Lee—and the trial of Jefferson Davis would cast no greater finality. There are, in the name of the people of Virginia, we most earnestly ask the President for the liberation of Mr Davis.

In the foregoing, it will be observed that the Enquirer cannot distinguish at all between patriotism and treason. It says: "There is not a man in the South less guilty of treason or patriotism, whichever it may be, than Jefferson Davis." This is undoubtedly the light in which the matter is viewed by the masses of the Southern people. The manner in which the rebels have been dealt with by the President has confirmed them in their belief that they have done no wrong. Without a conviction of treason, the moral force of our victory will be lost. Unless this matter shall be decided judicially it will never be established that the rebellion was a crime.

The Upper Missouri River

A correspondent of the Montana Post writes from Fort Sully as follows:

Some little desire is doubtless felt in Virginia to know the fate of the several boats which left Yellowstone Canon on the 26th and 27th ult. for the States. As we are now beyond Indian exposures, I have seated myself in the bow of our good boat Antelope No. 3 of Knox & Bradbury's boats to give you a hasty account of the trip. We were just ten traveling days from the place of embarkation to the mouth of the Yellowstone, a distance computed by Lewis and Clark, who passed over it sixty years ago, at eight hundred and thirty one miles. They made the trip, in canoes, in thirteen and a half days exploring as they went the mouths of its various tributaries. It is truly one of the most remarkable streams on the continent. The scenery is varied, unique, and, for the entire distance, very beautiful. For the first two hundred miles we were almost continually in the midst of rapids, many of which were of a very frightful character. None of our boats met with very serious difficulty. Occasionally two or three would get stuck upon the rocks, but we had strong arms enough always at hand to extricate them. The Mackinaws and flats were separated but little of the time, usually camped together, and sailed along harmoniously. When camping time arrived, we stationed guards around our camp, and made all needful preparations to resist attack; but for the whole distance we did not see an Indian. They were in pursuit of General Connor, or engaged in hunting.

On almost every hillside, and in every bend of the river, we saw herds of elk, buffalo, antelope and deer, and unrestrained by fear, we killed all we needed. The world does not afford finer hunting ground. Great numbers of elk and buffalo, at several points on our passage, swam the river within rifle range, in front of our fleet, and at one time most of the fleet yielding to the temptation, very imprudently, as I thought, went into camp for the purpose of hunting buffalo.

There are no lands susceptible of cultivation for the first two hundred miles below the Canon. The banks are low, but a few rods from shore terminate in rocky hills and cliffs, sparsely covered with fir trees. The central three hundred miles is very picturesque and beautiful. Immense cliffs of yellow sandstone rise from the very margin of the river on either hand to a height varying from one hundred to three hundred feet. The river is very straight, and along some of the stretches those cliffs run for miles, resembling somewhat the palisades of the Hudson. The work of disintegration has wrought these cliffs into a thousand fantastic shapes and covered their perpendicular sides with characters not unlike Egyptian hieroglyphics. It requires but a little stretch of fancy to transform these heights into castles, pinnacles, forts and obelisks of some giant age. Behind these rocks the country stretches away into immense plains, terminated by ridges of beautiful grass-covered hills. The soil is of superior quality, and the valley is broad enough to give employment to a nation of farmers. On every bend of the river, beautiful cottonwood groves fill up the intervals between the cliffs, giving to the country the appearance of a succession of magnificent old country seats. Indeed, while passing through this part of the valley, it is difficult to realize that one is not in a land of highest culture and refinement, instead of one of the most entire desolation.

The last two hundred miles the river is bordered by the "mauvaises terres," or bad lands. Hardly a living thing, except an occasional grove of stunted cottonwood, is to be seen. The rocks are changed into clay, and the clay is formed into the strangest looking cliffs and hills imaginable. No two resemble each other and none resemble anything else in nature. The sides present a great number of strata of earth, in which colors are strangely contrasted. In some of them as many as seventy six distinct shades may be counted, in nearly all of them at depths varying from five to fifty feet, may be seen veins of coal of from two to ten feet in thickness. There is probably more coal in the Valley of the Yellowstone than in any other single locality on the continent. There are also evidences of iron in immediate proximity to the coal veins.

Rapids continued for the entire length of the river, until within about 200 miles of the mouth—some of which are of a very formidable character. It can probably never be navigated above Wolf Rapids. The idea of ever reaching the mouth of the Big Horn river in a steamboat will sooner or later have to be abandoned. It is impossible. All that beautiful central Valley of the Yellowstone can have no other means of intercourse with the Missouri than such as is offered by a wagon road along its banks, or the more dangerous thoroughfare of the river in batteaux or flat boats, until a railroad is constructed for that purpose.

During 200 miles of our trip down the river, we were favored with very many views of the snow crowned peaks of the Rocky Mountains. Some of these views were full of grandeur, and amply repaid us for all the exposures of the journey.

Many of the points we selected as camping ground had been occupied by the Indians—some very recently. At one, about 150 miles from the mouth, one of our men while hunting, found in an old wigwam a representation of a treaty between several tribes of Indians, seemingly for the purpose of making common cause against the whites. It was rudely drawn with some black substance, upon the smooth surface of a cottonwood tree, which had been peeled and prepared for the purpose. Some of our company imagined they saw Indians hunting buffaloes, at one time, but it was probably a mistake.

THE REVENUE.—Returns for the first four months of the fiscal year, beginning July 1, 1865 show that the revenue for the whole year will foot up at least $390,000,000, and doubtless when the Southern States all get fairly under way the amount will run up to $420,000,000. This is for internal revenue alone. From customs the receipts exhibited a probable aggregate of $120,000,000 for the year. This gives a probable total of $510,000,000 or $170,000,000 above the estimates of the Secretary of the Treasury last December. This sum will equal or exceed a sixth part of the national debt. A country that can raise so vast a revenue can soon pay any debt, however large.

H. V. JOHNSON.—Herschel V. Johnson is one of the rebels who are spoken of far more highly than they deserve. Johnson was pardoned at the special intercession of Mrs Douglas. The admirers of the free pardon system have lately been very busy in trying to show that he never was an active rebel. They are altogether in error. The closest scrutiny of his political record does not reveal a single act or expression on his part against the rebellion. His every utterance before the war was in favor of secession. Now, forsooth he is held up as an example of a model Union man.

AGRICULTURE IN COMMON SCHOOLS.—In speaking of the importance of introducing elementary instruction in those sciences connected with agriculture into our common schools, the Prairie Farmer says:

It is not of one half the importance for the farmer's boy to know the capitals of all the empires, kingdoms, confederations or states of the Old world, to have at his tongue's end the names of all the rivers where they take their rise and where they empty, as to know the way to make a barren soil productive or to be able to prevent the failure of a crop, to save a valuable fruit from blight or insect, or know how much seed is needed per acre, and when and how to plant it.

TO LEAVE THE DISGRACE.—The people of Buchanan county Iowa are circulating petitions to have the name of their county changed to Lincoln, or some other respectable name.

Don Augustin de Iturbide, the oldest son of the first Emperor of Mexico, is now in New York City. He has been offered rank and emoluments by Maximilian, but has declined them.

South American News.

The steamer Mississippi from New Orleans, has arrived.

The steamer Henry Chauncey, from Aspinwall, the 14th brings advices from Valparaiso to Nov. 18th, and Callao, the 26th. There was but little change in Chilean affairs. The people are daily growing more dissatisfied with Spain. Some of the ports are now opened and commerce is dealt at a port forty miles from Valparaiso, which is connected with the latter place by a good road. Passengers and mails are carried regularly.

A Chilean privateer will soon be on the seas.

Bolivian affairs are quite unsettled. The revolution is going on. A disturbance had taken place with some Chileans owing to the Spanish vessels being allowed to coal their vessels there.

Advices from Peru are quite important. [illegible] Causer, after partially organizing, a new government was deposed by a public meeting and General Strid, one of the leading Generals in the late revolution was declared Dictator, he being pledged to call a Congress as soon as possible.

It is supposed that Strid will declare an alliance with Chile against Spain.

Martin, the Spy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—General Hooker, to-day obtained a writ of habeas corpus issued in the case of Martin, the alleged Confederate spy and bridge burner, who was brought in to the Supreme Court under guard. The United States District Attorney was Daniel S. Dickinson and his assistant G. Courtney, appeared for General Hooker, and M. Larcohe, for Martin. After hearing the arguments of counsel on both sides Justice Leonard adjourned the further hearing until Monday of next week.

Congressional—House.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Hubbard, of Connecticut, offered a resolution that the Government of the United States ought never to recognize any government imposed upon any nation on this continent by force of arms, by European power. Referred to committee on foreign affairs.

Mr Voorhees of Indiana, offered a resolution endorsing the President's annual message, and asking the support of the House to the principles therein enunciated. On his motion it was postponed till the 8th of January.

Mr H. I. Black, of Indiana, offered a resolution directing that inquiries be made into the expediency of admitting a delegate to Congress to represent the District of Columbia.

Mr Schenck, chairman of the House military committee endeavored last week in the committee room to squelch Washburn's bill for reviving the grade of Generals in the United States army, but failed. The bill was ultimately referred to sub-committee of the House on military affairs. The House military committee had under consideration yesterday a recommendation contained in the report of the Secretary of War. The committee have before them upwards of fifty petitions, from various parts of the country, asking for the equalization of bounty to soldiers. Those who enlisted for one or two years receiving little if any bounty, while those enlisting at a later period for one, two or three years, received $300. The committee will bring in a bill equalizing bounty among all soldiers. The military committee have before them several propositions to reorganize the army. Gen. Grant has prepared a bill for the purpose, which will receive the careful consideration of the committee, immediately after the holidays.

The House judiciary committee are organizing a bill in accordance with the recommendations of the President, providing for the holding of a United States Court in Richmond which Court will have the trial of Jeff Davis for treason.

Seventy eight Mississippians of little personal or political note were pardoned yesterday.

The Secretary of the Interior in reply to inquiries from Gen Howard, decided that the Freedmen's Bureau cannot hold government lands and cannot set apart unoccupied government lands in Florida or any other State, for the use or benefit of the freedmen. He further says, however, all homesteads and pre-empted lands are applicable to freedmen or any other class of persons.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—In the House Mr Bromall, of Pennsylvania asked leave to introduce a resolution asserting that the termination of the civil war has left the lately usurped territory in the hands of the conquering power and without political status, that the political condition of the people in the rebellious States must be decided by the supreme legislative power, that the effect of the amnesty is to relieve individuals of the punishment of crime but not to confer political rights, that Congress shall confer the necessary power to enable them to form their own State governments but this cannot be done until the rights of those among them, always true to their allegiance, shall be protected.

Raymond, of New York, presented the certificate of election of Kyle from Arkansas. Referred to the committee on reconstruction.

Elliott of Massachusetts introduced a bill to limit the liability of ship owners concerning maritime liens, and for other purposes.

Stevens of Pennsylvania, presented the petition of Warmouth, who wished to be admitted as a delegate from the territory of Louisiana. It is signed by 195 voters. Referred to the Committee on Reconstruction.

Lawrence, of Ohio, offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That public justice and national security demand that as soon as may be practicable, Jeff Davis, the representative man of the rebellion should have a fair and impartial trial in the highest appropriate civil tribunal of the country, for treason.

A Southern Judicial Decision.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Judge Busteed, of the United States District Court for Alabama, has decided that the Congressional oath for attorneys and civil authorities is unconstitutional.

Railroad Accident.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—Last evening a freight car and street car collided on the Hudson River R. R. and Fourth Avenue Railway. The cars were scattered and a number of persons injured, none seriously.

French Supposed to be Leaving Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—The Republican of last evening has information that the Imperial troops in Mexico are gradually approaching Vera Cruz with the view to embark for France. The statement seems supported by no detailed facts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The Times correspondent says: The Empress Charlotte arrived at Merida the capital of Yucatan on the 2d. Her reception was enthusiastic. After being conveyed through town to the Cathedral, and offering up of te deum, she made a speech to the people concluding with a cheer for the Province of Yucatan. The Emperor who had remained was to have left on the 21 inst. as a French transport had arrived bringing 613 of them.

The Imperialists boast that the attack of the Liberals on Matam[illegible] was a failure and that confusion prevailed among them. Everything quiet. No attacks have been made for a some time on vessels going up the river.

Suicide of J. T. Barker—Bad Reports from Georgia.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Joseph T. Barker, a wealthy merchant doing business at 1 S. Front street where he has been located for the last twenty five years committed suicide last evening by shooting himself with a pistol. He was laboring under a temporary fit of insanity induced by recent heavy pecuniary losses.

Reports from Georgia give a woful picture of affairs in the interior of that State. The country is traversed by bands of outlaws who hang and shoot negroes and commit other like outrages.

Grant's Report on Southern Affairs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The following is General Grant's report on the state of affairs in the South:

To His Excellency Andrew Johnson, President of the United States—SIR: In reply to your note of Dec. 16th, requesting a report from me, giving such information as I may be possessed of coming within the scope of inquiries made by the Senate of the United States in their resolutions of Dec. 12th, I have the honor to submit the following, with your approval and that of the Secretary of War.

I left Washington city on November 27th, for the purpose of making a tour of inspection through some of the Southern States lately in rebellion and to see what changes were necessary in the distribution of the military forces of the country, how these forces could be reduced and expenses curtailed and to learn as far as possible the feeling of the citizens of the States toward the General Government. The State of Virginia being so accessible to Washington and information from this quarter being readily obtained, I hastened through without conversing or meeting with its citizens. In Raleigh, N. C., I stopped two days, in Charleston, S. C., two days, in Savannah and Augusta, one day. Both in traveling and while stopping, I saw much and conversed freely with the citizens of those States, as well as with officers of the army who have been stationed among them.

The following are the conclusions come to by me. I am satisfied that the mass of thinking men of the South accept the present situation of affairs in good faith. The questions which have hitherto divided the sentiments of the people of the two sections, slavery and State rights or the right of a State to secede from the Union they regard as having been settled forever by the highest tribunal that man resorts to. I was pleased to learn, from the leading men whom I met, that they not only accepted the decision arrived at as final, but now that the smoke of battle has cleared away and time has been given for reflection think this decision has been a fortunate one for the whole country, they receiving the like benefit from it with those who opposed them in the field and cause.

Four years of war, during which the laws were executed only at the point of the bayonet in the States in rebellion have left the people possibly in a condition not to yield that ready obedience to civil authority that Americans have generally been in the habit of yielding. This would render the presence of small garrisons throughout the States necessary until such time as labor returns to the proper channel and the civil authority is fully established. I did not meet any one holding office or places under the government, or loyal citizens of the Southern States who thought it practicable to withdraw the military from the South at present. Whites and blacks require the protection of the general government.

There is such universal acquiescence in the authority of the General Government, in the entire country visited by me, that the mere presence of a military force, without regard to numbers, is sufficient to maintain order. The good of the country requires that a force be kept in the interior, where there are many freedmen. Elsewhere in the Southern States at present it is necessary they should all be white troops and the reasons for this are obvious without mentioning either of them. The presence of the black troops demoralizes the laborers, both by their advice and by furnishing within the camps a resort for freedmen for some distance around. The white troops generally excite no opposition, and therefore a small force of them can maintain order in a given distance. The colored troops must be kept in bodies sufficient to defend themselves. It is not thinking men who would do violence to any class of troops sent among them by the Government, but the ignorant in some places might, and doubtless do. The negro, impressed with the idea that the property of his late master should, by right, belong to him, or at least should have no protection from the colored soldiers, there is danger of a collision being brought on by such causes. My observations lend me to the conclusion that the citizens of the Southern States are anxious to return to self government, within the Union, as soon as possible. They want and require protection from the Government. They think what is required by the Government is no humiliation to them as citizens, and that if such course was carried out they would pursue it in good faith.

I did not give the operations of the Freedmen's Bureau that attention that I would have done if more time had been at my disposal. Conversation, however, on the subject, with officers connected with the Bureau, led me to think that in some States its affairs have not been conducted with good judgment or economy, and the belief so widely spread among the freedmen of the Southern States, that the lands of their former owners will, at least in part, be divided among them has come from agents of this Bureau. This belief is seriously interfering with the willingness of the freedmen to make contracts for the coming year. In some form the Freedmen's Bureau is an absolute necessity until civil law is established and enforced, securing to the freedmen their rights and future protection. At present however, it is independent of the military establishment of the country and seems to be operated by different agents of the bureau, according to their individual notion. General Howard made friends by the just and fair instructions and advice he gave, but the complaint in South Carolina was that when he left, things went on as before. Many, perhaps a majority, of the agents of the Freedmen's Bureau, advise the freedmen that they by their industry must expect to live. To this end they endeavor to secure employment for them and then see that both contracting parties comply with their engagements. In some cases, I am sorry to say, the freedmen's mind does not seem to be disabused of the idea that a freedman has the right to live without proper prospects for the future. The effect of a belief in the division of land is idleness and accumulation in camps, towns and cities. In such cases, I think it will be found that vice and disease will lead to extermination or great destruction of the race. It cannot be expected that opinions held by the men of the South for years can be changed in a day, and therefore the freedmen will require for a few years not only laws to protect them, but the fostering care of those who will give them good counsel and on whom they can rely. The Freedmen's Bureau separately from the military establishment of the country requires the experience of a separate organization. One does not necessarily know what the other is doing and what orders they are acting under. It seems to me that this could be corrected by regarding every officer on duty with troops in the Southern States as an agent of the Freedmen's Bureau, and having all orders from the head of the Bureau sent through the department. I consider this would create a responsibility that would effect uniformity of action throughout the South. It would preserve order in such instructions from the head of the Bureau being carried out, and relieve from duty and pay a large number of employees of the Government.

(Signed) U S GRANT

[illegible] OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly [illegible] the Common Council was held at 7 o'clock, Mayor Failing presiding. [illegible] members were present: Messrs. Gill, [illegible] Strowbridg[e] and Watkins. [illegible] of the previous meeting were read and app[roved].

[illegible] for a reduction of assessments were made by [illegible] all of which were referred to the [illegible] ways and means.

[illegible] with a petition of L. H. Wakefield, the [illegible] at the corner of [illegible] to remain; but to be so put up as to prevent [illegible]

[illegible] appropriating $100 for repairs of streets [illegible] were caused by the excavations for sew[ers].

[illegible] wished to call the attention of members of [illegible] to a matter that was rather out [illegible] house of business was being conducted [illegible] to get into which was a very easy matter [illegible] out of which with any money was not a [illegible] but dead fall and ought to be abated. [illegible] that other members might think the matter [illegible]

[illegible] thought as there were many places that [illegible] that caption the member should be [illegible]

[illegible] said if that was so, that there were many [illegible] it was so much worse for the city. He [illegible] and had been informed that the Police [illegible] to abate it, for want of evidence to pro[secute].

[illegible] spoke of the matter as one which required [illegible] the Council. He thought the difficulty [illegible] by increased licenses from such [illegible] conducted on the [illegible] system [illegible] the most productive of the evils complained of [illegible] was of the opinion that something [illegible] to abate the dead falls. There is a species [illegible] carried on in them that does not come within [illegible] misdemeanors even, yet they were worse [illegible]

[illegible] the discussion, the Council adjourned.

[illegible]—The firemen of Portland have a [illegible] the most efficient and expeditious [illegible] in the world. Having observed [illegible] which the department does its work and [illegible] the highest authorities applaud it, Mr [illegible] on Thursday evening last, determined to [illegible] approval, and end the year 1865 by an [illegible] seldom felt in this community and [illegible] complimentary ball to the department at [illegible] The hall in which the ball was held, [illegible] of Portland. It is the dining [illegible] The supper was spread at [illegible] to dancing, and proved a very good [illegible] have been impossible, with the [illegible] to set the tables at midnight. [illegible] tables were set across the hall [illegible] beginning with Willamette No. [illegible] Protection No. 4, then at the East end [illegible] for seating Vigilance Hook [illegible] The growth of Portland was here [illegible] at any other place we could well [illegible] were provided for 250 persons, and not [illegible] As many more could have been com[fortably] [illegible] not more than half the available space [illegible] The tables were worthy [illegible] that [illegible] at them, but also for [illegible] for which the [illegible] proprietor of the [illegible] There were none of those [illegible] and exaggerations perceptible at [illegible] were cakes and the fruit was [illegible] to deceive the appetites [illegible] and no inclination for civil flunkeys to turn [illegible] for eatables, as Mr. Coffin had [illegible] with attentive waiters, who [illegible] from the department until [illegible] course. The cold fowl and ham and other [illegible] at suppers, were not artfully hidden behind [illegible] but were such brought out and contrib[uted] [illegible] for which they were prepared. The [illegible] was not hired, but bore upon it [illegible] of those invincible bakers, Opitz & Sharf, and [illegible] off a piece of the superb cakes found [illegible] After the supper came the dancing, and [illegible] that the arrangements were perfect. No [illegible] go home with a fear of losing that [illegible] but could dance just as long [illegible] as it pleased them to do so, and [illegible] The only decorations to the ball at the [illegible] and the smiles of the ladies. Twenty [illegible] were accommodated at one time on [illegible] ninety two couples, or 184 persons, and [illegible] to avoid treading on one [illegible] all appeared sensibly clad, not in the [illegible] articles, nor heathen gods [illegible] practical common sense women. We [illegible] further comment upon the scenes [illegible] this complimentary ball which we consider [illegible] to make the hotel of Mr. Coffin the ren[dezvous] [illegible] class of citizens who believe [illegible] good time. Visit the Lincoln House once [illegible] that, as the name indicates, it is relia[ble] [illegible] men to stop, and the sentiments of [illegible] with the same, and both are one [illegible]."

[illegible] THEATRE.—There was a good audience out [illegible] to witness the presentation of the popular [illegible] in three acts, and a prologue, of "Our Friend [illegible]" This play has been often rendered in [illegible] it was written and localized by one [illegible] of the Bay City press, and it has so many [illegible] of the times, it is always well received. [illegible] Julia Chapper was one of the most be[illegible] She is happily constituted, and can [illegible] first rate hits, in parts where lively, animated [illegible] than almost any other actress we have [illegible] the Portland stage. We like her [illegible] first part performer in any char[acter] [illegible] which she assumes those wherein the [illegible] of her own lively temperament are [illegible] there is an evident appreciation of her [illegible] of a gratified audience. Mrs. Mo[illegible] last evening, was excellent, while [illegible] did well as a young lady fond of moonlight [illegible] and poetry. Mrs. Chapper, a lady of the old [illegible] fond of the vernacular of the new was [illegible] by Mrs. Wood. Mr. Phelps, Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Shelby each held their [illegible] and were as successful as they were [illegible] hope to see a good house out this evening.

[illegible] LECTURE.—The interesting dis[course] [illegible] at the Catholic Church on Thursday eve[ning] [illegible] Father Bochard, S. J., was a master piece [illegible] and was listened to by a numerous and ap[preciative] audience, who, whilst many of them did not [illegible] the tenets of the Catholic faith, were unani[mous in their] admiration of the perspicuity and eloquence [illegible] by the reverend Father. At the conclusion of [illegible] Father Bochard announced that on next [illegible] evening he would deliver another lecture in [illegible] church on the following subject: "The Catho[lic Church] the source of Moral and Mental Freedom."— [illegible] understand this talented divine cannot remain [illegible] in Portland, we advise all who desire to en[joy an] intellectual feast to go and hear him on [illegible]day evening.

[illegible] TO THE CHARITABLE.—A case was called to [illegible] yesterday, which is one that requires the [illegible] attention. A family by the name of [illegible] living on the east side of North First street [illegible] and D streets, have lost two children from dis[illegible] throat, both of whom were dead in the house [illegible] and another not expected to live until this [illegible] The mother is alone, the father being absent [illegible] and she is without means to alleviate her [illegible] A subscription paper was started [illegible] yesterday, drawn up by Mr. A. C. Brad[illegible] headed the list, and Mr. Bruce started [illegible] for some relief to the poor woman [illegible] he had collected [illegible] dollars. [illegible] gave him twenty dollars more [illegible] others, and it is hoped for the sake of hu[manity] that something may be done to-day for the as[sistance] of the suffering woman.

[illegible]—A number of persons were arrested and [illegible] since in the city for not taking out [illegible] due, and complaints were [illegible] that the [illegible] did not give notice of the [illegible] to give such notice and [illegible] responsibility. It is presumed that as the [illegible] due on the same date, there would [illegible] keeping track of them [illegible] there [illegible] in the city who are not quite [illegible] things [illegible] be no very great expense if the Council [illegible] to inform such of their liability to arrest [illegible] in three months.

[illegible]—The lecture delivered last evening at the [illegible] before the Independent Order of Good [Templars], by Rev. G. H. Atkinson, was a decided success [illegible] was large, and the speaker was listened to [illegible] attention, showing that [illegible] interest is [illegible] in the Temperance cause. After [illegible] fraternal meeting was held by the members [illegible] and a vote of thanks was unanimously ex[tended] to the Reverend gentleman for his able and inter[esting] [illegible]

[illegible]—Yesterday there was a sudden change [illegible] From that period, so beautifully round [illegible] there came a dash of rain, cold and pelting [illegible] and creaking ropes and flying [illegible] reminded us that spring had no business [illegible] of the year.

[illegible] left this place yesterday morning, [illegible] and is not expected to return until this [illegible] to be hoped that she will have connection [illegible] but it is a matter of doubt.

NEW BREWERY.—Mr. James Mas[illegible] late of Mason [illegible] has constructed a new brewery [illegible] [illegible] A new vessel with a [illegible] [illegible] for the few days past from [illegible] [illegible] new brewing village at [illegible]

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, December 29th 1865.

The interruption to communication with the upper Columbia river now bids fair to be of short duration. The steamer Cascade is making her regular trips, but so far there has been no communication with the Dalles, yet it is felt almost certain that there will be by Monday or Tuesday of next week.

One train of jack animals has made its appearance in our streets during the week for loading to the Dalles, which revived old memories somewhat, and was the subject of remark in circles familiar with the modes of transportation and travel along the Columbia river prior to the organization of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company. Few can realize, when the river is closed by ice, the advantages they have gained by the outlay of capital the past few years, to give them safe and speedy modes of transportation to the interior of the great mining region East of us, and learn from it what other advantages may be attained to them by developing routes, and better facilitating travel to the mines more recently discovered in Montana. They ought to see that when those new regions are secured to us by steamboating and staging they will be of immense value, and take hold of the matter at once, and decide upon improving the natural advantages they are in possession of, by profitable investments. A few days since we read a letter from Mr. Mosty of the Dalles, one of the parties at present engaged in the enterprise of opening communication to Montana. It will yet be necessary for our people to do at least as well as other sections, in proportion to ability, to secure this trade.

We are gratified to note the movements on foot at the East to bring to the attention of Congress and the public, the great work of constructing the Northern Pacific Rail road. The speech of Gov. Curry at Boston, and the letter of Mr Stevens, published during the week, show a spirit looking to a consummation of the end devoutly wished by all parties interested in the development of the great belt of country between the 40th parallel and the Northern boundaries of California, Nevada and Utah. So far this region has never received proper attention. Now that there is a hope, let all men unite in pressing the claims of the favored section for its rights to assistance. The facilities of transportation for the whole region are inadequate, and the importance of the Government directing some of its attentions in this manner, while so lavish in expenditures for California, is apparent. The growth and development of the country thus far has solely depended upon private enterprise. Its future must depend in a measure, upon securing the assistance of Government. Postal facilities, military protection, etc., should be afforded in Oregon, Idaho and Montana, just as readily as elsewhere.

We have received the By Laws and Constitution of the "California Mining Bureau Association." Its principal object is to found and establish a permanent Bureau, in which shall be collected all available information concerning the mineral resources of the State of California (and the adjacent States and Territories) for the purpose of assisting in developing them, by directing public attention thereto; to collect a Cabinet of Mineral Specimens and other objects of interest; to procure and keep a Scientific Laboratory for assaying and testing ores and other purposes; and such Machinery as may be required for practically working ores; and to establish a Reading Room and Library. It is thought by some in California that the association will "be instrumental in enriching the people, furnishing remunerative employment to the laboring man, and reducing the oppressive taxes they now have to pay to carry on the State and county governments, by largely increasing the amount of taxable property." This may all be so, but unless very different from any organization of this character ever heretofore established in San Francisco it will do nothing to inform people of the mineral resources of the adjacent States and Territories, unless it be Arizona and Nevada.

South eastern Idaho is beginning to attract considerable notice on account of some important discoveries of quartz and placer mines. Silver ores assaying from $400 to $700 a ton, have been found between City Rocks and Fort Hall, probably on the slope towards the waters of Snake river. The placer prospects were found in the mountains about thirty five miles from Soda Springs and are represented as being in no way inferior in richness to those of Boise or Montana. Considerable quantities of the gold have been offered in trade at Soda Springs.

Messrs Ladd & Tilton, Wells, Fargo & Co. and the Bank of British Columbia, have agreed that on and after Monday next exchange on San Francisco will be sold at one half of 1 ℔ cent premium. The former rates were three quarters of 1 ℔ cent.

Some of the New York bankers recently adopted the plan of paying interest on deposits. With regard to the practical workings of it, the New York Journal of Commerce says:

"We are inclined to think that the question of allowing interest on deposits has come before the banks of this city in a new line of argument within the last few days. Those who have been quite willing to receive these deposits and allow four per cent. interest upon them have found by experience that a monetary pressure is eloquent with reasons why they should reconsider their decision. Some who have made the deposits have also received a warning lesson and will be less greedy here after. It is true that the money was subject to call, but when there is a little uproar in financial circles the call has to be so loud that it often puts the lender out of breath before he obtains his funds. Thus both sides have seen the subject in a new light, and the arrangement seems much less desirable than it did a few weeks ago."

The repeal of the clause requiring a deposit of $50,000 in the State of Oregon before Life Insurance companies and Banks could transact business here, which was one of the measures of the late special session, is having its effect already apparent. The Germania Life Insurance Company, 90 Broadway, N. Y. will soon establish an office in this city.

We have no reported sales of mining shares. Legal tenders rule at 68 cents. Money is in demand with rates unchanged.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, December 29th, 1865.

Since our last trade has been almost entirely suspended on account of the closing of the Upper Columbia by ice, which has confined business to nearly a local trade. Should the river now open as indicated by the change of weather, we may expect some improvement. The stocks of most kinds of produce are good, prices range about the same as last quoted with the exception that it is necessary to add [illegible] to candles, which on account of supply and demand are firm at prices noted. Domestic Produce Market.

PORTLAND, December 29th, 1865.

The market remains the same but from advices received from San Francisco by the last steamer, Messrs Richards and McCraken in their circular of Dec 23d, state that prices of wheat must drop in the spring, as there is a large amount in California which will be thrown on the market, that will necessarily have its effect here. We will quote at 95@$1 05 ℔ bushel without sacks. Oats are without change, buyers offering 62½@65. Butter, choice roll in brine 35@40 cents.

In Bacon there is but a limited demand at present, and prices are ranging at 22@23c for sides and 18@20c for hams. The stock of lard is large, and the demand limited, at from 20 to 23c, according to quality and manner of putting it up. Dried apples, in light demand 10c; in sks 7@8c; Peaches, 15c; Plums, 16@20 cents.

On account of the demand for the holidays, poultry has an improved tendency. We quote, to-day, chickens at $5 50@$6 ℔ dozen; turkeys, $1 50@$2 50 each. Eggs are worth from first hands 45@50 cents per dozen, and have a tendency to further depreciate, although fresh, good quality are scarce and in demand.

Buyers are offering for salted hides, 4½@5 cents ℔ lb.; dry 9@10 cents.

Furs have declined in price. Buyers are now paying 50 cents ℔ lb for Beaver; for Mink, $1 to $1 50 each; Otter $2 to $2 50; Marten $3@$3 50; Coon, 18@20cts.

Weekly Retail Family Market.

FRIDAY, December 29th, 1865.

No changes are advised in respect to the prices in this branch of our trade. The supply is generally good in all articles classed below and we may add that a very superior article of sweet potatoes, from California, are offered, jobbing at 6 cents per lb. These would answer very well if rassed, and those who may wish to obtain them for that purpose, are recommended to read the notice of J O'Connor, 50 First street. Eggs are drooping—there are really few fresh ones in the market. Butter is nominally unchanged.

THE STANDARD

AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!

AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS.

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENTION of persons wishing a Billiard table to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, composed of all the first class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship as the best and only reliable tables.

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges, who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability.

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a patent from the French Government for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ in the construction of our tables a variety of machines specially made for the purpose, by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mechanical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards, and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials, we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch.

This eminent French Billiard Player, M. Berger, has published the following opinion:

NEW YORK, 25 August, 1861.

On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior, that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration.

"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof. of Billiards, Paris."

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price.

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "BILLIARD CUE," a journal published in the interest of Billiards, and containing details of all novelties, a copious record of Billiard news and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application.

M. E. HUGHES,
730 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Cal., is our only authorized Agent on the Pacific coast, to whom all orders should be addressed.

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.
